Your Pentagon Consultant

Chris Manning

In the 10 years advising on and designing play spaces, I've developed a love of creating positive and inspiring outdoor environments in many types of educational facilities. As a father of 2 sporty boys, I understand exactly how children learn and grow during playtime and physical activity. I regularly work on site during complex and challenging installations, which enables me to fully empathise with my customers in terms of upheaval and logistics. Pentagon nurture all of their consultants with expert educational training and mentor them to give industry-leading customer service. It's a complete pleasure to work with them in this rewarding environment.
