

Archway Heritage

Appendix 14

Yeomanry House

Table of contents

Plate 1: Interpretation of significant fabric on the ground floor.

Plate 2: Interpretation of significant fabric on the first floor.

Plate 3: Interpretation of significant fabric on the second floor.

|                                                                                                   |                |                                        |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|----------------------------------------|
| Rev: A                                                                                            | Date: 20/01/26 | Description: Revised Existing Drawings |
|                                                                                                   |                |                                        |
| Project: Yeomanry House, 131 Castle Hill, Reading, RG1 7TADrawing: Existing Ground Floor Plan |                |                                        |
|                                                                                                   |                |                                        |

Plate 1: Interpretation of significant fabric on the ground floor.

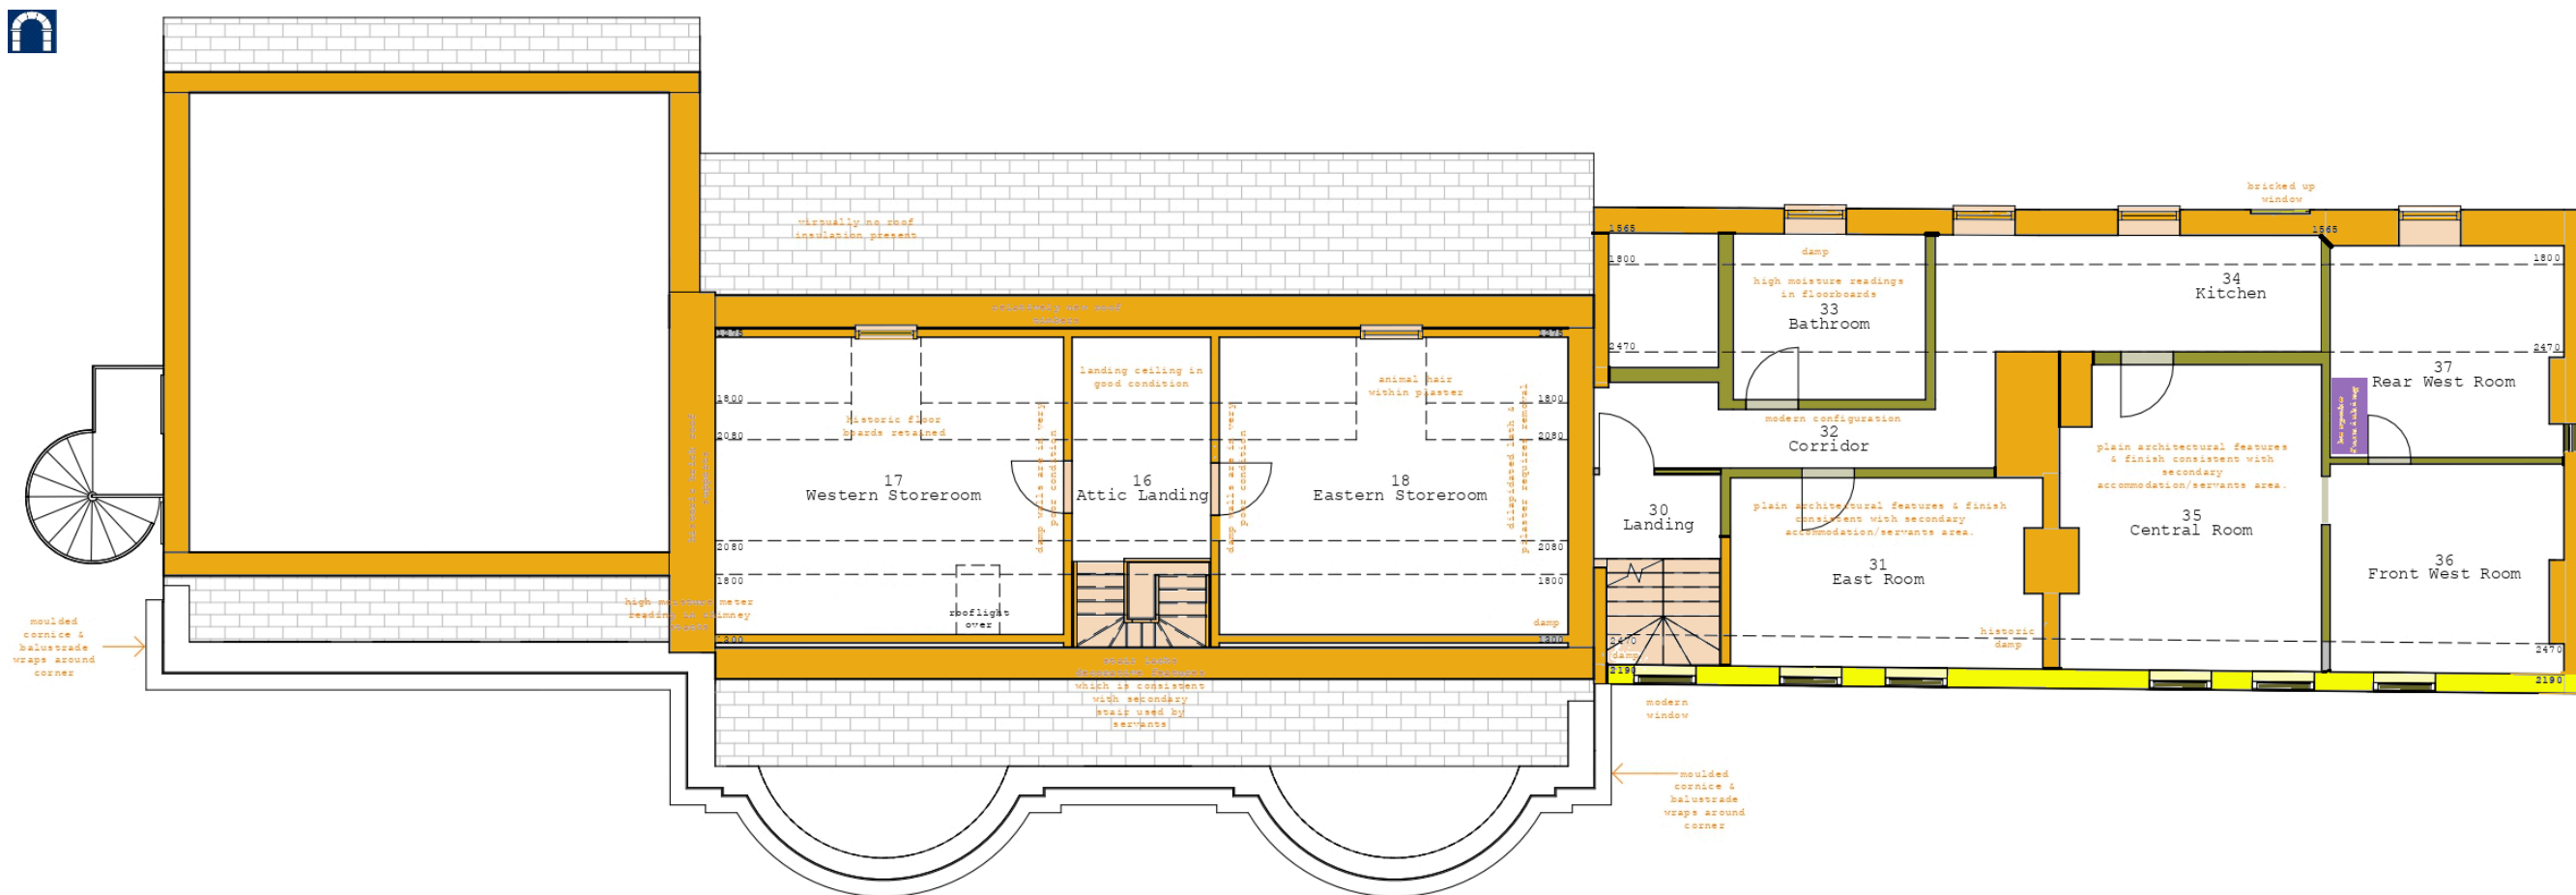

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

- Original design intent
- Damaging modifications
- Modifications causing limited damage
- Modified openings
- Internal partitions causing localised damage
- Modern replacements and damaging modifications
- Highly decorative
- Moderately decorative
- Limited decorative detailing
- Austere
- Austere with fixtures and fittings

|        |                |                                        |                                                                                       |                                                            |                                                                                       |
|--------|----------------|----------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Rev: A | Date: 20/01/26 | Description: Revised Existing Drawings |  | Project: Yeomanry House, 131 Castle Hill, Reading, RG1 7TA |  |
|        |                |                                        |                                                                                       | Drawing: Existing First Floor Plan                         | Chartered Practice                                                                    |

Plate 2: Interpretation of significant fabric on the first floor.

|                                                |                                    |
|------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| Original design intent                         | Highly decorative                  |
| Damaging modifications                         | Moderately decorative              |
| Modifications causing limited damage           | Limited decorative detailing       |
| Modified openings                              | Austere                            |
| Internal partitions causing localised damage   | Austere with fixtures and fittings |
| Modern replacements and damaging modifications |                                    |

Plate 3: Interpretation of significant fabric on the second floor.